

THOMAS ROWLAND

DATA ANALYST/SOCIAL MEDIA MARKETING, WILMOT INC.

Originally from the low country of South Carolina, Thomas moved to Nashville with a desire to support sustainability measures on a larger scale, leading to his role as a Data Analyst at Wilmot.

Education

Bachelor of Arts
Environmental Studies
Bachelor of Arts
Spanish
Wofford College

Growing up on a rural horse farm in North Carolina and the low country of South Carolina, Thomas discovered a lifelong love for the outdoors. Thomas' father is a forester and land manager, so his passion for ecology, conservation, and mitigation has been in his blood from a very young age. This led to him studying Environmental Studies at Wofford College.

As an Environmental Studies major at Wofford College, Thomas fell in love with the work of environmentalists and nature writers like Rachel Carson, John Muir, and Richard Powers. As a Spanish major, Thomas was exposed to global sustainability initiatives in Spain and other Western European countries, as well as Costa Rica and Belize, which led to his interest in helping sustainability initiatives in Nashville, Tennessee, and beyond.

Thomas joined Wilmot as a data analyst and field technician for the company's partnership with LDA for ADA sidewalk and bikeway audits. He has since worked in tandem with the sustainability team, including David Adams, Nate Martinez, Natalie Connor, Lillian Berger, and Ava Hetzel for the early stages of the East Bank Project. Additionally, Thomas has worked with Ava, Natalie, Lillian, and Mark Pruett on the social media marketing team.

Notable Projects:

ADA Sidewalk/Bikeway Audit (LDA)
Nashville, TN

Teamed with Chris Williams and Leif Watkins of Wilmot and Juan Loza of LDA in data collection efforts for over 500 miles of sidewalks in Nashville.

Organized and reviewed data to ensure the accuracy of reports and necessary modifications and restorations;

Wilmot Social Media Marketing
Nashville, TN

Coordinated with the Wilmot social media marketing team to create content and schedule posts to Wilmot's social media accounts.

Wilmot